

Grandmas Gone Wild

Grandmas Gone Wild is a great example of fundraising for small groups because it shows that everybody can make a difference just by joining together to support a favorite cause. Many seniors want to make a difference, but sometimes feel lost in bigger fundraising groups.

Grandmas Gone Wild can fill the gap by giving like-minded seniors a way to band together. Of course, they can always call on Grandads Gone Wild or Grandkids Gone Wild to assist them in their charity endeavors!

Fundraising Activities for Grandmas Gone Wild

- Raffles – Everyone loves a chance to win something
- Bingo Night – Good time for all at a local hall
- Crazy Hat Party – Any excuse you need to get that insane hat out of your closet
- Wine Tasting – Fundraising does not get any funner than this!
- Bunco Blast – Great fun for a large group of senior ladies!
- Pancake Breakfast – What senior does not love to start a day with flapjacks & syrup?
- Spelling Bee for Cheaters – Hilarious way for everyone to have fun while buying vowels
- Senior Triathlon – Compete in your own funny version of Armchair Olympics

What is any fundraiser without mementos of the fun-packed day? Sell T-Shirts or any other notable reminder of the event? Keepsakes in form of photo albums documenting the event, or photo opportunities captured and sold on location, etc.